

BRITE™

Broad-based Roots Influencing Team Effectiveness

The Future of Team Assessments is BRITE™

Nearly 75% of employees see teamwork as essential*, yet many feel they lack training and understanding of their team dynamics. Understanding those dynamics and organically adapting to organizational needs significantly differentiate highly effective teams from the rest.

BRITE™, Broad-based Roots Influencing Team Effectiveness, is the only comprehensive team assessment on the market that measures the quality of team interactions while establishing a clear language, vision, and pathway to higher levels of team effectiveness. Using five critical elements contributing to team success, BRITE examines generative and disruptive factors to evaluate current team effectiveness and reveal where team development work will have the greatest impact. BRITE measures the attributes a team possesses, the underlying contributing factors, and the key drivers at play.

The Dynamic Energy Systems of Teams

When energy is fully flowing through team members, it creates collective strengths that do not come to the forefront otherwise. When teams lack sufficient energy or the flow of that energy is disrupted, teamwork fractures, which results in lower-quality interactions, decreased productivity, and lack of innovation.

The key to becoming more effective as a team is to increase the flow of energy by boosting energy generation through the 5 critical elements of Team Effectiveness that BRITE brings to the forefront.

Highly Effective Teams

Highly effective teams are like bright lights within an organization. They increase a business's competitive advantage and serve as a beacon of effectiveness. A great team exhibits these kinds of behaviors:

- Understand the generative and disruptive factors that lead to diminished energy
- Are proactive and able to penetrate the market with speed
- Have increased customer satisfaction
- Have clearly defined roles, allowing for quicker task completion
- Bring innovative strategies to the forefront
